

Network cable fiber optic cable hub panel

Overview

A fiber patch panel is a mounted enclosure—either rack-mounted or wall-mounted—used to terminate, manage, and interconnect multiple fiber optic cables. It acts as a hub for organizing splices and patch cords, streamlining fiber management and preserving signal integrity. The OCC Fiber Distribution Hub (FDH) is designed to provide maximum versatility by accommodating a variety of fiber connectivity modules, such as PON/MPO/Splice cassettes, adapter plates, optical splitters and splice trays to support fiber networks utilizing traditional splicing or pre-terminated. Multilink's Fiber Distribution Hubs are setting the standard for cross-connect configurations, configurable splitting, plug-and-play technologies and many other fiber architects. A bulk (multi-strand) fiber cable enters the patch panel and then each fiber strand is separated into individual strands or pairs of strands.
