

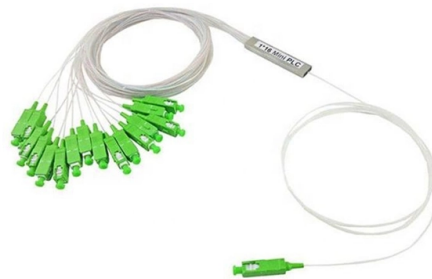

Photovoltaic inverter module manufacturers

AI Overview

Leading photovoltaic inverter manufacturers include Sungrow, Huawei, TBEA, Ginlong (Solis), and Sunplus, among others, offering a range of grid-tied, hybrid, and off-grid solutions globally. Global Market Leaders The top global solar inverter manufacturers are dominated by Sungrow and Huawei, which lead in revenue, technological innovation, and market share. Sungrow reported revenue of 77.86 billion yuan with a net profit of 11.04 billion yuan in 2024, reflecting strong growth and industry influence. Huawei's inverter segment also performs exceptionally, with both companies widely recognized for reliability and advanced inverter technology. Other notable global players include TBEA, Senergy, Deye, and Ginlong (Solis), which provide competitive solutions for residential, commercial, and utility-scale projects.

Notable Manufacturers and Their Offerings Solis (Ginlong): Offers a wide range of inverters including low-voltage single-phase, three-phase, hybrid, off-grid, and utility-scale inverters, with global distribution across Asia, Europe, North America, and the Middle East. KACO new energy (Germany): Specializes in utility-scale and commercial inverters, with a history of innovation including the first transformerless solar inverter in 1999. Luminous Power Technologies (India): Focuses on residential and commercial solar inverters, along with power backup solutions. Sunplus New Energy (China): Produces hybrid storage inverters ranging from 3kW to 60kW, compatible with both low and high voltage batteries, and also offers EV charging solutions.

Industry Overview The solar inverter sector is a resilient and growing segment of the photovoltaic industry, driven by global renewable energy adoption, technological innovation, and increasing demand for energy storage integration. Manufacturers are expanding their product lines to include smart inverters, hybrid systems, and energ...
